

ABSTRACT

A method for preventing or treating otic disorders and otic disorder-related complications in a subject involves a monotherapy with a Cox-2 inhibitor or a combination therapy with a Cox-2 inhibitor and an otic agent. Also 5 described are therapeutic compositions comprising a Cox-2 inhibitor and an otic agent. Pharmaceutical compositions and kits for implementing the present method are also described.